MITCHELL TO BE HOOVER'S ATTY GENERAL

Present Solicitor General Selected for Cabinet Post

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—William D. Mitchell, Solicitor General of the United States, has been selected by President-elect Hoover to be Attorney General in his Cabinet. Simultaneously with this development today friends of William J. Donovan said he would not occupy any federal office after March 4.

Mr. Donovan, who is assistant to the Attorney General, conferred briefly with Mr. Hoover this morning and was understood to have informed the President-elect of his unwillingness to accept the post of Secretary of War or the Governor-Generalship of the Philippines. He was said to have told Mr. Hoover that he considered himself suited only for certain federal positions and that the Secretaryship of War was not among these.

Under No Obligations.
The Assistant Attorney General was said to have pointed out that he did not consider Mr. Hoover was under obligations to offer him a post in his administration. He had worked for Mr. Hoover in the last campaign out of friendship for the Republican candidate and because he believed in the issues Mr. Hoover favored, it was explained.

With the selection of an Attorney General decided upon, Mr. Hoover was said to be in a position to complete his Cabinet within a very short time. Although Mr. Mitchell is a Democrat, he was represented as having voted for Charles Evans Hughes in 1916; for President Coolidge and for Mr. Hoover.

The Attorney Generalship at one time was expected to go to Donovan, who was represented today as being annoyed by the opposition raised against him for this post by certain dry forces and others. He was said to feel he was being looked upon by these forces not as an individual whose capacity for organization and administration were to be taken into account. Mr. Donovan is returning as soon as possible to Santa Fe, New Mexico, to wind up his activities as chairman of the Boulder Dam Commission and as Commissioner on the Rio Grande Commission. On the 4th of March he will retire to the practice of law and sever his connections with the government.

With the elimination of Donovan for the War Secretaryship, the name of James M. Good of Iowa, was brought forward as a possible choice. Mr. Good was Mr. Hoover's western campaign manager.

Mitchell Indianan.
Mr. Mitchell was born in Winona, Minn., 55 years ago. His father was Justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court for 20 years. He began the practice of law in St. Paul in 1901. He was regional Counsel for Citizens Charter Committee of St. Paul in 1922. He assumed the office of Solicitor General in June, 1925.

The record of the newly designated Attorney General shows him to have been active in Minnesota National Guard affairs over a period of years. He is listed as a Presbyterian.

The President-elect had a rather large number of callers today, including Dante Pierce, Iowa Publisher, whose name frequently has been heard in the speculations about the post of Secretary of Agriculture. C. Bascom Sloop, Republican National Committeeman for Virginia, has been invited to call late in the day immediately upon his return here from Florida.

Other callers included Senator Shortridge of California, who talked special session of Congress, and Representatives Fish and Taber of New York. The Postmaster General and Mrs. New were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

While her husband is engaged in political conferences, Mrs. Hoover is unusually busy attend to details of inauguration matters which necessarily come under her attention. She conferred today with Colonel U. S. Grant, 3d, of the inaugural committee, concerning arrangements for a buffet luncheon to be held at the White House immediately after the ceremonies.

About 500 guests will attend. While Mr. Hoover has his inaugural address well along toward completion it is not expected that it will be ready for delivery to the press before Saturday afternoon.

A. F. & A. M. SPECIAL.
A special meeting of Friendship lodge, No. 7, A. F. & A. M. will be held at the Masonic Temple Thursday evening for degree work.

DOCTOR FOUND FIRE VICTIM HIS DAUGHTER

Child Burned While Mothers Talked Fire Risks

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—At Mrs. E. D. Huntington's home yesterday a meeting of mothers was being held. They were worried over fire hazards at the Barnard school, which their children attend, and they were wondering what to do.

And as they met, a little girl edged too close to the stove in the Barnard school kindergarten.

The child, painfully burned, was carried to the office of Dr. E. D. Huntington.

Dr. Huntington, gently pulled back the cloth in which the girl was wrapped, and looked down upon Ann, his five-year-old daughter.

He treated the burns and took the child home. He arrived with Ann in his arms, just a few minutes after the mothers, worried over the school's fire hazards, had adjourned.

COUNCIL PLEDGES HELP TO PREVENT DAIRY BUILDING

West-End Property Owners Continue Fight; Pomeroy Resigns

What may prove another stumbling block in the construction of the plant of the Standard Dairy Company on West First street, which has met with bitter opposition on the part of home owners, developed last evening at the regular meeting of the city council.

A large delegation of citizens owning property in the neighborhood of the old Dixon College campus, attended the council session in a body and again protested against the location of the dairy in that neighborhood and implored the city council to support them in their fight.

Ray S. Kline speaking for the delegation, informed the council that officers of the Hunter Lumber Company, who maintain their offices and storage yard in what was formerly known as the Brown Field, own property on the site.

GOVERNOR IS STANDING PAT ON TAX BILLS

Refuses to Change His Position on Gas Tax Measure

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—After more than an hour of argument and pleading on the part of a joint committee representing Chicago organizations and Assembly members, Governor Louis L. Emmerson today refused to change his stand in any way on the 3-cent gasoline tax bill.

The committee, numbering nearly thirty, pleaded vainly with the Chief Executive to get him to "send word" to the Assembly that the bill should be delayed at least a week while amendments are prepared by the opponents of its distribution features.

"I have sent no word on the bill. I have asked no member of the legislature to vote for it and I will send no word either way now," the Governor told the committee.

Whether it shall be rushed or delayed is up to the members of the legislature and not in my province as Governor. My position is that all legislation should be hurried.

Revealed "Joker"
The Governor revealed for the first time a "joker" in the bill which enacts County Commissioners to declare any bond issue road a state aid road and thus expend a portion of the gas tax on it.

In Cook county you have fifteen commissioners, of which ten come from Chicago," he said. "If they desire to declare any road through Chicago a state aid road, I have expert legal advice that they may do so and then use funds from the gas tax."

Spokesmen in the committee were Michael Igge Democratic floor leader in the House; Senator Tom Courtney of Chicago; Col. Charles Hayes of Chicago Motor Club; Representative James P. Boyle of the First district; Cook County Commissioner Nettleshorpe; Sidney Gorham, Representative Snodgrass and others.

The Illinois Municipal League was represented by Mayor Bartlett of Evanston and A. D. McLarty, secretary.

The committee was agreed, its members told the Governor, on the fundamental objections to the distribution of the tax, but was not agreed on the details. It was to reach an agreement on the details that delay was asked.

Haven't Read Bill
"Some of you have not read this bill," the Governor said, "or you would not be opposed to it. What I want to prevent the Cook County Commissioners from declaring any of the bond issue roads through Chicago state aid roads and spending the tax money on it?"

"Calling a spade a spade," said Senator Courtney, "it is a fact that you sent word to the third floor clerk to hold back on the bill. It would be held back, and that if you sent word to rush it it would be rushed. We need a week or ten days to crystallize our amendments."

"I will send no word to the third floor," replied the Governor.

"Governor, you promised to pay the interest on bonds out of the automobile license tax and no other tax," said Representative Igge. "The people in Chicago consider this bill most inequitable. You are going to saddle onto our city approximately 50 per cent of the cost of road building."

"Speaking for motorists," said Colonel Hayes, "I believe you could sell to the people a 2-cent tax divided between the state and county, with the county assuming the care of roads through the city. Then, add another cent later if it is necessary."

Is Not Unfriendly
"I am trying to give you what you want," the Governor said. "If this bill doesn't go through there will no doubt be others introduced. No man can rightfully accuse me of being unfriendly to Chicago. I am as proud of that great city as any of you gentlemen are. At the same time, you don't ever need to hang your heads in shame because you are a part of the great state of Illinois."

Representative Boyle suggested a referendum and said the people in his district are unanimously opposed to any gas tax.

"If you are opposed to any gas tax why do you ask me for a delay?" asked the Governor. "Why don't you just go upstairs and defeat the bill?"

Several members of the committee chorused that Boyle probably was the only man in the room opposed to the tax.

TO SEEK FUND OF $30,000 TO SAVE Y. M. C. A. AND PUT IT ON SOUND MONEY BASIS

Sentiment at Public Meeting Against Closing Assn.

The civic meeting at the Methodist church last evening, called for the purpose of considering the advisability of closing the Dixon Y. M. C. A., drew about 100 of the representative citizens of the community. The meeting was called to order by H. M. Hey, president of the institution, who made a statement regarding the present position of the association and called upon J. C. Koller, secretary of the Y, who presented figures showing the exact status at the present time.

Upon motion, R. S. Kline was made chairman of the meeting and he called for a frank expression on the part of the people present. The number who participated in the discussion included S. Standfield, O. M. Rogers, W. H. Lancaster, Robert Sterling, O. F. Goeke, Miss Frieda Weinman, J. N. Weiss, J. L. Davies, Rev. A. T. Stephenson, Rev. W. W. Marshall, Dr. J. P. Young and others.

Three of the younger boys gave short talks, urging that the work be continued, if possible. Said the youngest one "If you men will take care of the finances now, we'll take care of this job when we grow up." Upon motion, a campaign for the sum of $30,000 was recommended as the most feasible solution of the present problem.

This sum, if raised, will pay off the present indebtedness, provide for some very necessary repairs and insure the continuation of the work for the year. The sentiment for the continued operation of the Dixon Y. seems to be very strong. Whether or not the city is able to provide the amount necessary for its support remains to be seen.

KIDNAPER AND VICTIM FOUND IN NEW MEXICO

11-Year-Old Boy Asked Man to Take Him Away from Home

Roswell, N. M., Feb. 27.—(AP)—His big kidnapping adventure ended, 11-year-old Richard "Dickie" Grant, who had been missing from Los Angeles since three days before Christmas, today was found for home and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Grant.

The lad, accompanied by two California officers and Harry Palmer, charged with his kidnapping, left here early this morning for Los Angeles.

A two months search for the boy by air and by foot over the southwestern desert country ended yesterday when he coasted on his roller skates into the arms of the California officers in front of the dingy shack in which he and Palmer lived here. The youth was ruddy faced, had long shaggy hair and wore a dirty blouse and overalls. He couldn't remember when his hair was combed last.

Palmer was arrested while painting a house nearby. He told officers he took the boy from his home at the child's request after Dickie had threatened to commit suicide if left behind. He claimed the boy was mistreated by his parents, and Dickie told the officers he left because he "got whippings" at home.

Dickie, who with Palmer had assumed the name "Eagle," at first endeavored to hide his identity from the officers. He said his name was "Robert Eagle" and that he had no relatives. Finally he confessed he was Richard Grant and took the officers where Palmer was working.

Henry McKinney of Savanna Died Today

Mayor Frank D. Palmer was advised this morning of the unexpected death of Henry McKinney, city controller of Savanna, a former Dixon man and the son of the late Uriah McKinney of this city. Mr. McKinney had complained of not feeling well, while at his office yesterday, and had gone home early, according to information imparted to Mayor Palmer. About midnight he became suddenly worse and was taken to the hospital, where he died an hour later. Particulars concerning the funeral were not announced in word received by the Dixon executive.

Some of the furniture was saved but much of it, including many heirlooms and pieces of valued fancy work, together with 150 quarts of canned fruit and 75 bushels of potatoes, were destroyed. Mrs. Bennett resided in the house with her daughter, Miss Lily and her sister, Mrs. Sanford.

NO EVIDENCE IN MASSACRE WAS STOLEN

Attempt to Burglarize State's Attorney's Office Failed

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The second automobile to be investigated by the police on a theory that it might have been the car used by the slayers of seven members of the Moran gang was found today in Maywood, a suburb. It had been partly demolished, apparently from an explosion, and was standing in the street. In it the police found a notebook bearing the name of Al Weinschank, one of the men slain, and Ted Newbury, one of the suspects sought for questioning, along with several shotgun shells, a cap and a suit of overalls.

The police believed that dynamite had been placed under the hood of the car which was similar in appearance to police squad cars although of a different make. Witnesses had declared the car in which the killers had appeared to be a police machine.

Police Skeptical

Because of the names, shotgun shells and other clues left in the machine, the police were skeptical, believing the automobile to have been "planted" purposely to mislead them. They have about reached the same conclusion concerning a dismantled car found last week in a burning garage and at first thought to have been the death car. They have been unable to find the owner of the first car, although they learned the name of a man who purchased it from a dealer in used cars last November.

The notebook found in the Maywood car also contained the names of several cleaning and dyeing companies, supposedly those with which Weinschank was connected in racketeering activities. Numbers found on the transmission and chassis were sent to the Peoria Motor Car Co. at Cleveland to learn the original owner of the machine. John E. Northup, Assistant State's Attorney, today said nothing had been taken from the state's office by persons who had broken a lock on the door. It had been reported that papers in connection with the gang killings had been taken, but Mr. Northup said that although the lock on the door had been broken, nothing was missing from the office located in the Criminal Courts building.

Lock Pried Open

The knob of the door leading to the office of John A. Swanson, State's Attorney, was removed, and the lock pried open. Chris Kieseling, private secretary to Swanson, made the discovery yesterday, but it did not become known until today. Whether important papers were removed was not indicated.

The office was ransacked a few hours after police had broadcast a general order for the arrest of 17 men in connection with the Valentine's Day gang murders.

Besides data dealing with the massacre investigation, the files contained documents used by the State's Attorney in his inquiry into graft charges involving the Chicago Sanitary District and the police department.

Swanson, who left yesterday for Bloxi, Miss., to recuperate from a recent illness, gave orders that a close guard be kept over the offices.

Probe Stands Still

The murder investigation, to all outward appearances, was standing still. Twenty-four hours after the slaying of 17 men had been made public, none had been arrested. All theories save one apparently had been dropped. Police were concentrating on the belief that followers of Al Capone were responsible for the assassination.

Capone himself was not considered as having had a part in the planning of the crime, but one of 14 lieutenants, Jack McGurn, headed the list of men whose arrest has been ordered.

Because of the fact that there had been no major arrests in the case, the fear was expressed that the gang feudists were working out their own mode of vengeance, and that another gang killing might write in blood the name of the Valentine's Day assassins.

Former Head Board of Health is Dead

St. Louis, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Louis Adelsberger of Waterloo, Ill., former president of the Illinois State Board of Health, died in Barnes hospital here last night. He was 67 years old. He had been in the hospital here three weeks.

In addition to having served many years as head of Illinois Health Board, Dr. Adelsberger had been chairman of the Southern Illinois division of the American Red Cross and in that capacity aided in relief work following the disastrous tornado of 1917.

FOCH RALLIES SLIGHTLY BUT IS GRAVELY ILL

Doctors Believe His Fight With Death is Losing One

Paris, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Marshal Foch, fighting what his doctors believe is a losing battle with death, staged a slight rally this morning and showed some improvement over his condition last night.

A bulletin issued by his doctors said there was a slight amelioration in the pulmonary symptoms and reduction in both temperature and pulse.

The physicians considered their patient gravely ill however and at the termination of their consultation refused to make any predictions.

They emphasized that the amelioration of the pulmonary symptoms noticed over night gave only the slightest excuse for optimism.

With the confession of pessimism on the part of the Marshal's doctors it has become known that their optimistic reports over the past three weeks have often been just for publication in the French newspapers. The Marshal reads these and it was believed pessimistic stories might have had an adverse effect on his will to live.

The ups and downs of his condition have drawn heavily upon his reserve of strength and four recurrent attacks of congestion in his lungs made his condition most serious, his doctors say now.

THIEF ABANDONS STOLEN CAR AND LOAD OF METAL

Officials are Investigating Peculiar Theft at State Hospital

Seven sacks of scrap copper and brass, stolen from the Dixon state hospital, and a Dodge sedan belonging to Charles Easley of this city, were being investigated today by Sheriff Ward Miller and deputies.

The Easley car was taken from a parking space used by employees of the institution, and driven across the Illinois Central tracks to a dump, where the sacks of metal had been hidden.

Deputy Sheriff Davis, night watchman at the state hospital was driving to the institution last evening about 6:45 and near the colony grounds, discovered a car driving directly toward him. The car was in a deep rut and the deputy stepped from his machine to assist the other driver in getting out of the ice rut.

The two men exchanged words, when suddenly the driver of the Dodge sedan, turned and walked north a distance of about 250 feet, then started to run across fields, abandoning the car and its cargo.

Sheriff Notified

The deputy then investigated the contents of the car and reported the incident to the sheriff's office, two deputies being sent to the scene at once. The car and the seven sacks of copper and brass scrap was taken to the county jail and an investigation started.

Mrs. Easley, wife of the owner of the car, drove to the state hospital yesterday afternoon where she is employed and an employee parked her car near the institution garage. It was apparent that the scrap copper and brass from new buildings which have been completed or are under construction had been secreted in a dump pile across the tracks, and that

Lenten Thought

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist
Henry Drummond called Love "the greatest thing in the world." It is likewise the holiest thing in the world, and we should understand the meaning of holiness if we interpret it altogether in terms of love.

Nor is it only the love of God that is holy. All love is the love of God, and all love is holy. Man's capacity for love is the evidence that in God he lives and moves and has his being. So it was that John said that "love is born of God and knoweth God."

The best life, the "holiest" life, is the life in which there is the most love. Can we really dare to believe that? So few men act upon it in practice. Yet when we analyze human experience and the results of men's actions and ambitions can there be any doubt that love is the supreme thing and that its satisfactions go far beyond all other achievements.

Money, power, pleasure—what are any of them in comparison with the satisfactions of those who have discovered what it means to love and to be loved—and especially of those who have found the meaning of the great word in the language, "God is Love!"

CALLED CHILD FROM SCHOOL; USED CLEAVER

Then Calmly Walked to Her Home and Told of Bloody Deed

Calling at the office of the Superintendent of the Central grade school in Sterling this morning and receiving permission to take her seven-year-old daughter to a dentist, Mrs. Frances Keefe Greig, former wife of William Greig, once a resident of Dixon, and herself a former resident here took the trusting child into the basement of the school building, almost severed the little one's head from its body with a meat cleaver which she had just purchased at a hardware store, and then calmly walked home in her blood-bespattered clothes, a distance of six blocks, and told her mother, Dr. Jane Reid Keefe, what she had done.

Was Insane

That the horrible tragedy was committed in a spell of insanity is certain, for the mother had been a patient at East Moline state hospital for some time, but was some time ago thought to have been cured and was sent home to her mother, a well known Sterling physician. Her terrible crime this morning came like a bolt out of a clear sky and people of Sterling were stunned by the horror of it.

Mrs. Greig was taken in custody as soon as her mother notified the officers, which was immediately after the insane young woman had disclosed what she had done, and it was thought probable in Sterling today that she would be committed to an institution for the criminally insane.

Remembered Here

Many Dixon people will remember Mrs. Greig and the little one whose life she so cruelly ended this morning. They resided on the north side for some time, until she and her husband separated, the wife taking her baby and going to her mother's home in Sterling.

William Greig, father of the little victim of today's tragedy is now in Chicago.

Surprised Mr. and Mrs. J. C. DePuy at R. F. Church Sunday

(Sterling Gazette)

Some 150 members and friends of the Rock Falls Methodist church partook of a bountiful fellowship dinner together Sunday at 1 o'clock in the church dining room. The pleasant affair honored Mr. and Mrs. J. C. DePuy, members of the church, who were observing their silver wedding anniversary that day.

At the close of the morning service Rev. J. O. Crawford invited all present to remain for the dinner. He announced that the affair was being held for Mr. and Mrs. DePuy, much to the surprise of the couple from whom it had been kept secret until that time.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Fern Yeager at the piano, the bride and groom of 25 years ago led the march into the dining room. Rev. Crawford pronounced the invocation, after which all were seated.

A pretty color scheme of orchid and silver was used for decorations. Silver hearts, place cards, orchid candles and silver service added to the trimmings. On the bride's table there was a two tier wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and groom. It was designed and baked by Mrs. Lloyd Hubbard of Dixon, as sister of Mrs. DePuy who was present. The floral piece on the bride's table was a bouquet of yellow jonquils, a gift to the honored couple from their eldest son, Elwood DePuy. Before the first course was served Miss Heiler Barrus sang sweetly, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Yeager at the piano. Prof. E. H. Bergh and an orchestra of young people furnished beautiful musical selections during the dinner.

Church Ladies Serve Dinner. The ladies of the church prepared and served the elegant meal. On the menu was meat loaf, mashed potatoes and gravy, cabbage salad, macaroni and cheese, jelly, pickles, rolls, ice cream and cake.

After the tables had been cleared the diners turned their chairs toward the platform for the program. Appropriate remarks referring to the courtship, honeymoon and married life of the honored couple were made by Rev. Crawford. In behalf of the church members and friends assembled, he presented them with a chest of silver knives and forks.

Mr. and Mrs. DePuy both responded with words of appreciation for the gift and honor paid them. A twenty minute playlet, "The Only Day I Have," presented by a group of talented dramatists in the church followed. It was directed by Mrs. H. H. Field.

The theme of the playlet showed how a family was brought into the church after having lived a life apart from God, and became regular church attendants. Those taking part were: Emory McNeil, the father; Miss Elizabeth Runley, the mother; Miss Fern Yeager, the daughter; Mrs. Harry Bassett, the neighbor; Fred Yeoward, a friend; Orville Yeager, the son; little Margaret Dodd, the youngest daughter; and Edward Hollenbeck, the Sunday school superintendent. Little Miss Dodd sang "Jesus Loves Me" at the conclusion of the playlet.

Before the program ended by all singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," Frank Barrus favored with a solo. "The End of a Perfect Day," by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Out of town guests present at the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson and children of Rockford, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hubbard and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dysart and Mrs. George Hawley of Dixon.

Practical Club Was Entertained Tuesday

The Practical Club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Homer Sennett of East Chamberlain street, Tuesday afternoon.

The paper "Modernism," was given by Mrs. Hart, which compared the rearing of children in the past and present generation. Miss Dorothea Schick delightfully entertained the club with several piano selections.

Three guests were present. Miss Schick, Miss Beier and Mrs. Kew. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Gracia, and friend Muriel Kew.

In Texas Peace Pageant

How times do change! It used to be that nations went to war because of the charms of a beautiful girl, and now these same feminine allurements are being used to promote international goodwill. For 31 years Laredo, Texas, which is right on the Mexican border has staged a big patriotic celebration each Feb. 22—with everything from allegorical parades to bull fights—in celebration of peace between Mexico and the United States. Here are two of the girls who are taking leading parts this year, Miss Nellie Ward as "Miss America," and Alto Grace Puster as "Miss Mexico."

by ALLENE JUDGE

Again Henry Ford remarks that there is too much drudgery in the home and that the great throbbing world of industry and science must do for the woman in the kitchen what it has done for her husband in the shop, on the farm, in the office.

In his new book, entitled "My Philosophy of Industry," he writes: "We shall soon find a way to do much of the cooking outside and deliver it in a hot and appetizing condition at mealtime at no greater cost."

He elaborates other ways in which wholesale work outside the home could absorb the retail work of the home, giving woman leisure and time for the many other interests of life.

HIS IDEA NOT NEW
Henry Ford's voice isn't the first raised against the waste of woman power in the home, nor is he the first to present a solution.

Years ago they tried out community cooking, community nurseries, and, after all, what is the public laundry and restaurant but a way for women to transfer their individual laundry and cooking to the wholesale world outside?

The big question in all attempts to deliver woman from "drudgery" is the same question which the Chinese asked when told of all the time that he could save—"Yes, and what do we do with this time?"

It is possible that the bulk of women are really ready for deliverance from bondage. But it is also possible that they are not, and that if what our Henry Fords are pleased to call "drudgery" were taken from them, they would ask, "What do I now do with my saved time?"

THE WOMEN PROTEST
I have noticed that the chief carpers against all attempts to lighten home labor are women themselves. Nobody ever sniffed more sniffly at the first attempts at community kitchens and community nurseries than women; the older women who, having gone through their own course of sprouts, wanted other women to get the same dose, and the younger woman who chafed at the idea of their own job being taken used for the skull-tight caps for spring, appearing in many colors. Other spring caps will be knitted of a new kind of straw thread which shows the imitation of the knitted chenille caps in spring material.

Enjoyable Bridge Party Last Evening

Last evening at her attractive apartment, Miss Jane Franks entertained at an unusually enjoyable bridge party, guests for four tables being present. A note of the spring season which is almost with us, was perceived in the lovely spring flowers which were the decorations. The tallies, also, were in the pastel spring colors.

Mrs. Warren G. Murray was awarded the favor for high honors for the ladies; and Harry A. Roe won the favor for high score for the gentlemen, while Mrs. Warren C. Durkes was awarded the favor for second honors for the ladies, and Harry C. Warner won the corresponding favor for the men.

During the happy social interval following bridge delightful refreshments were served.

YOUR CHILDREN

One of the causes of lowered efficiency, we know, is lack of emotional control.

If one is angry, jealous or hating someone actively, he cannot work well. Other things, such as over-excitement, worry, shame, fear, or even a more pleasant sensation such as intense love will undermine not only work, but mental processes and health.

A temperamental person with a hair-trigger nervous system, jumping from the extremes of happiness one day to the depths of despair the next, or lost in an abyss of hate or other emotion, is seldom well. Moreover his work is likely to be erratic and none too dependable.

The daily job of being a parent requires that mentally, morally and physically, he be efficient. But he cannot be efficient if he loses emotional control.

It is easy, of course to tell fathers and mothers never to get angry, to overcome their dislikes and hatreds, to banish discontent. But it is a fact that parents can do a great deal of harm to children by lack of emotional control in themselves.

Worry, we cannot get away from so easily. But half the time we worry about things that are not necessary. For one thing we worry too much about what other people will think. Besides, half our worries are not worries, our longings.

Self control, an even disposition, liking people, ceasing to be envious of other people's luck, not getting foolishly worked up over trifles—all these things will make home happier and the care of the children easier.

In other words, the best parents are those who are satisfied and happy, and like Emerson's unforgettable motto, are those who "avoid excessive joy and complaining grief."

Children instinctively respect the mother or father who refuses to give way to petty emotions. Naturally, obedience will follow much more readily in the wake of this respect.

The Bidding: South bids no-trump and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads 6 of clubs. What card should be played from Dummy?

The Error: Declarer plays Queen of Clubs from Dummy.

The Correct Method: Applying the Rule of Eleven, Declarer knows East can hold only one card in the club suit and it is higher than 6 of clubs. If a finesse is taken and East obtains the lead, he will in all probability lead hearts. Opponents will make five tricks in that suit, leading spades thereafter so that the declarer will be set. Declarer should win the first trick with Ace of clubs and return to his hand with a diamond. Then, leading clubs again and finessing according to the card played by West, at least two tricks will be made in clubs, six tricks in diamonds and at least one in the other suits, so that game is safely made.

The Principle: Never finesse before anticipating the final result.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—NO FICKERING

When putting on ruffles, lace or anything else you want eased onto a dress, always hold the thing you want eased toward you. Otherwise it will pucker.

SCATTERED RAISINS

When making raisin cake or cookies, pour hot water over the raisins first and drain and scatter them through the cake dough. This prevents their sinking to the bottom. Dredging with flour before putting into the cake has the same result.

STEAMED PRESS

When sponging the children's school trousers, get out all the spots, then sponge with a cloth wrung out of clear water, fold the creases carefully while they are still damp and spread over papers laid on the radiator. They will dry beautifully, all creased as if steam pressed.

SALTY STARCH

If you add salt to your starch, your iron will not stick.

AIR MOISTNESS

For the dry, steam heated room, a decorative way to introduce air moistness is to keep a squat little ewter, copper or brass tea pot, or kettle on the radiator full of water. Every room should have a fern, too, if possible.

FERN'S MEDICINE

Ferns stay fresh and green and grow luxuriously if one remembers to give them a bit of castor oil every now and then, a taste of cold tea or drink of cold coffee. A semi-weekly bath under the bathroom shower comes near giving them the freshness of a day in the spring rain.

EVEN ICING

When icing a cake, pile the icing right in the middle of the surface to be iced and you will find that it is easier to keep the icing even.

DOG'S DRINK

If you keep a nickel's worth of brimstone in the dog's drinking water and leave it there, it helps keep the dog healthy and is especially good for a dog subject to worms.

ENLARGING ROOMS

When re-decorating rooms remember that finely lined papers and light-colored trims give a sense of space. Also arranging big pieces of furniture parallel with the rugs and walls.

LETTERING SHEETS

When beds in a home are several sizes it is often hard to pick from freshly laundered sheets, the size to fit a particular bed. A time saver is to letter or number small sheets "one" or "A"; three-quarter bed sheets "two" or "B"; and full-sized sheets "three" or "C." Put in one upper corner these identifications can be seen easily.

CHILDREN'S TIES

If your seven or nine-year-old son just can't seem to keep his neckties from looking like strings, get him a tie rack just like Daddy's and he will straighten them out and hang them up himself.

ATTENDED CIVIC MUSIC DINNER FROM STERLING

OUR RECLAMATION RECORD.

The activities of the federal government's Reclamation Bureau are often attacked these days on the ground that they cost far more money than they were worth. It is charged that the arid lands reclaimed for cultivation were not needed and, in many cases are not used.

Figures just issued by the Department of the Interior are interesting, in that connection.

They show that more than 600,000 people live on federal reclamation projects. Last year these people raised crops worth $135,000,000. The local food products which these districts supply have helped to open mining districts and keep mines in operation, and have strengthened the range stock industry by providing winter feed for stock. In addition, the crops grown on these areas have cheapened railway freight rates by providing an immense amount of local business for the transcontinental roads.

Such figures indicate that the Reclamation Bureau can be rather proud of its record.

THE WILD HOG PASSETH.

The wild razorback hog, for years one of the most striking bit of animal life in the state of Arkansas, is apparently on the verge of extinction.

Students at the University of Arkansas plan to present a razorback to the undergraduate who is held to have done the most for the university during the present school year. When they adopted this plan they figured that getting the porker would be the least of their troubles. But now they are finding that the razorback is by no means as common as he used to be.

Accordingly, a bulletin from the university's news bureau says that the students are going to make a state-wide search for a razorback. Time was when these wild hogs were so plentiful as to be a veritable nuisance—but that time has passed. Arkansas is no longer a backwoods state.

MELLON ON FAILURE.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon is not one of those who believe that the rise of large-scale industrial and business organizations has diminished the ambitious young man's chance to succeed in the world.

Writing in the February issue of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, Secretary Mellon declares that, on the contrary, he believes that opportunities are "infinitely more varied" than formerly, that rewards are greater and that the enjoyment is more immediate.

"It should be pointed out," he writes, "that as part of a large organization, adequately financed and directed by men in touch with market conditions throughout the world, the average man's chance of failure is far less than it would be outside. I remember the time when we lived in a world of small competing units, and it seemed to me that the casualty list was very great."

GOLF IN INDUSTRY.

The games of golf has helped bring about the humanization of industry and is one of the chief factors in the move toward the five-day week, according to Miss Frances D. Perkins, New York's new commissioner of labor.

Factory and business executives, she says, like to get away on Saturday to play golf. The game appeals to them so strongly that they are beginning to let their employees do the same thing. Officials who never before would have dreamed of curtailing work on Saturday are now reconciled to the idea because of the lure of the golf course.

We always knew golf was a fine game, but we never before suspected it was playing so big a part in our industrial field. If Miss Perkins' diagnosis is correct, the golf fanatic has one more reason for lauding the game he loves.

A funeral in Chicago costs less than half as much as it would in New York, say the Chicago undertakers. We can't understand why Woolworth hasn't opened a five-and-dime coffin store there.

St. John Ervine, guest critic from England, says the movies are written by the half educated for the half witted. We wish that guy would stop being so conservative.

A West Virginia woman found a diamond in a can of lard. That wouldn't have been news at all in New York where big butter and egg men are continually casting at least pearls before swine.

THE TINY MITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The funny looking rubber tree was just as bouncy as could be. It made the Tinies wonder if they'd ever reach the ground. When they had landed plump on it, they couldn't stand, or even sit. They kept on bouncing in the air, and turning round and round.

"Hey, hey!" cried Carpy. "Wonder when we're going to quiet down again. This bouncing game is really fun, but gee, it lasts too long. It doesn't really bring a scare, but I got dizzy in the air. I've turned around so many times my old head seems all wrong."

And then the bunch heard Clowey squeal. "That's just the funny way I feel. Let's try and slide off of this tree and slip down to the earth. When we are high up in the air, we'll twist and turn round everywhere. I think that we can make it if we try for a while we're worth."

So, when each one was bounced up high, they'd twist until it made them sick. It wasn't long, however, till they did just what they tried. By changing their positions quick, they slid right off the tree real slick. And shortly they were in the ground, all sitting side by side.

"Thank gosh," said Scouty "that is over, and I don't care for any more. I'd rather sit right where I am and rest and rest and rest. I've had enough of exercise to make me fagged and close my eyes. Let's flop beneath that yonder tree. I think that would be best."

"Oh sure," said Coppy. "We will walk to the tree on yonder hill. It surely is a crazy tree, just like a big hay stack. But, underneath it we can crawl. There's lots of room, I think, for all. Of course if we don't like it we can turn and come right back."

(The Tinies get a big surprise in the next story.)

MY THIRTY YEARS AT SEA

By Capt. George Fried

Now a strapping sailor, Fried faces his first big storm. Eight days his vessel fought it, whipped and tossed in mountainous seas. Given up for lost, the boat's position after the storm was 1,000 miles off its course, steering gear damaged, funnels broken and twisted. How did he reach port?

BY CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press)
CHAPTER III

As I look back over my sea career, which is now approaching 30 years, there is one storm which I encountered while aboard the destroyer Roe that stands vividly in my memory. That was the first real storm that I experienced. Fortunately, I have never had to go through another one like it.

When we met this storm the Roe, which was one of the first oil burning destroyers built for the Navy, was bound for Guantanamo for fleet maneuvers. As I recall, I was 11 years at sea when this experience came along. Of course I had been in other storms before, and I had also been seasick, but they were so small in comparison with this hurricane that the others were erased from my mind.

The Roe was in a squadron of destroyers and we had planned an "attack" on the fleet. The ship was in perfect condition, all hands were looking forward for a pleasant time, when the blow hit us off Delaware. It might be interesting to state right here that many people have an exaggerated idea of heavy seas.

The fact of the matter is that a sea whipped by a hurricane with a wind velocity of 80 to 100 miles an hour never makes a comber larger than 20 to 30 feet at the most from the trough to the crest. The length of this wave between the crests is from 100 to 150 feet. The waves on the surface travel approximately 25 to 30 miles with the direction of the wind. Storms that usually create the greatest disturbance are the West Indian hurricanes, the Chinese typhoons, the Mexican northers and the upheavals in the Straits of Magellan.

Occasionally, the seamen experience violent storms off the Atlantic coast, and it was one of this type that the destroyer squadron encountered that winter in 1911. The barometer had been falling steadily; the sea was getting rougher. Finally, the destroyers spread out for safety.

Wireless was then in its infancy, but we managed to maintain communication with various ships when we lost sight of each other and we were proceeding through heavy seas.

A destroyer rolls violently in a heavy sea, but our men were all experienced and none became seasick. The first night the green seas were coming aboard fore and aft. We were compelled to leave our usual bunks and went below to the engine room to keep warm.

About the third day, as we were being driven by the wind from our course out into the Atlantic, one of the three funnels was bent over like a match stick by a big wave. Late that night another sea bent the second funnel at its base. The lone stack remained in position for several hours, but finally it, too, gave way and the three were on the deck hanging partly over the side.

We were living on coffee, soup and hard tack, as cooking was impossible, except in a kettle in the engine room. The 150 members of the crew were huddled together hour after hour in the lower part of the ship. We were getting radio flashes giving only meager details, but they were sufficient to let us know that our sister ships were faring as badly as we, or worse. Some headed for Norfolk and the formation was completely broken up. That night there was an indication that the first respite was approaching. The seventh day the fury of the storm subsided. Our steering gear had been damaged and we were virtually helpless.

We eventually got in communication with the battleship Vermont. On the eighth day the seas had moderated considerably and the Vermont appeared on the horizon. When we took our position we found that we had been driven from our original course approximately 1,000 miles.

The Vermont, after considerable difficulty, took us in tow and proceeded to Norfolk. When we arrived we found five or six other vessels already in the safe haven. When our officers and men met the other crews and officers, every one greeted each other affectionately, and I saw some of them actually embracing, kissing and dancing in circles.

We were the last to arrive and many had despaired of us ever reaching port again. Our ship looked like the battered form of a knocked-out pugilist. Some of the extent of the damage can be gained by the fact that we were in port six months for repairs. The maneuvers had to be conducted without us.

I had been through storms of short duration with similar intensity, but this by far was one of the most monotonous experienced in my career. In spite of the pounding of the seas not one of us ever had any fears and I do not think that we really appreciated the real danger of the situation until we were once again safe in port and looked over the damage that had been done.

Place on Payroll of Chicago Brings Scorn

Chicago, Feb. 26—(AP)—Prof. Leonard D. White, of the Department of Public Administration at the University of Chicago charged that a place on the Chicago city payroll puts one in a class looked down upon with public scorn, in making public today a survey he conducted during the last two years.

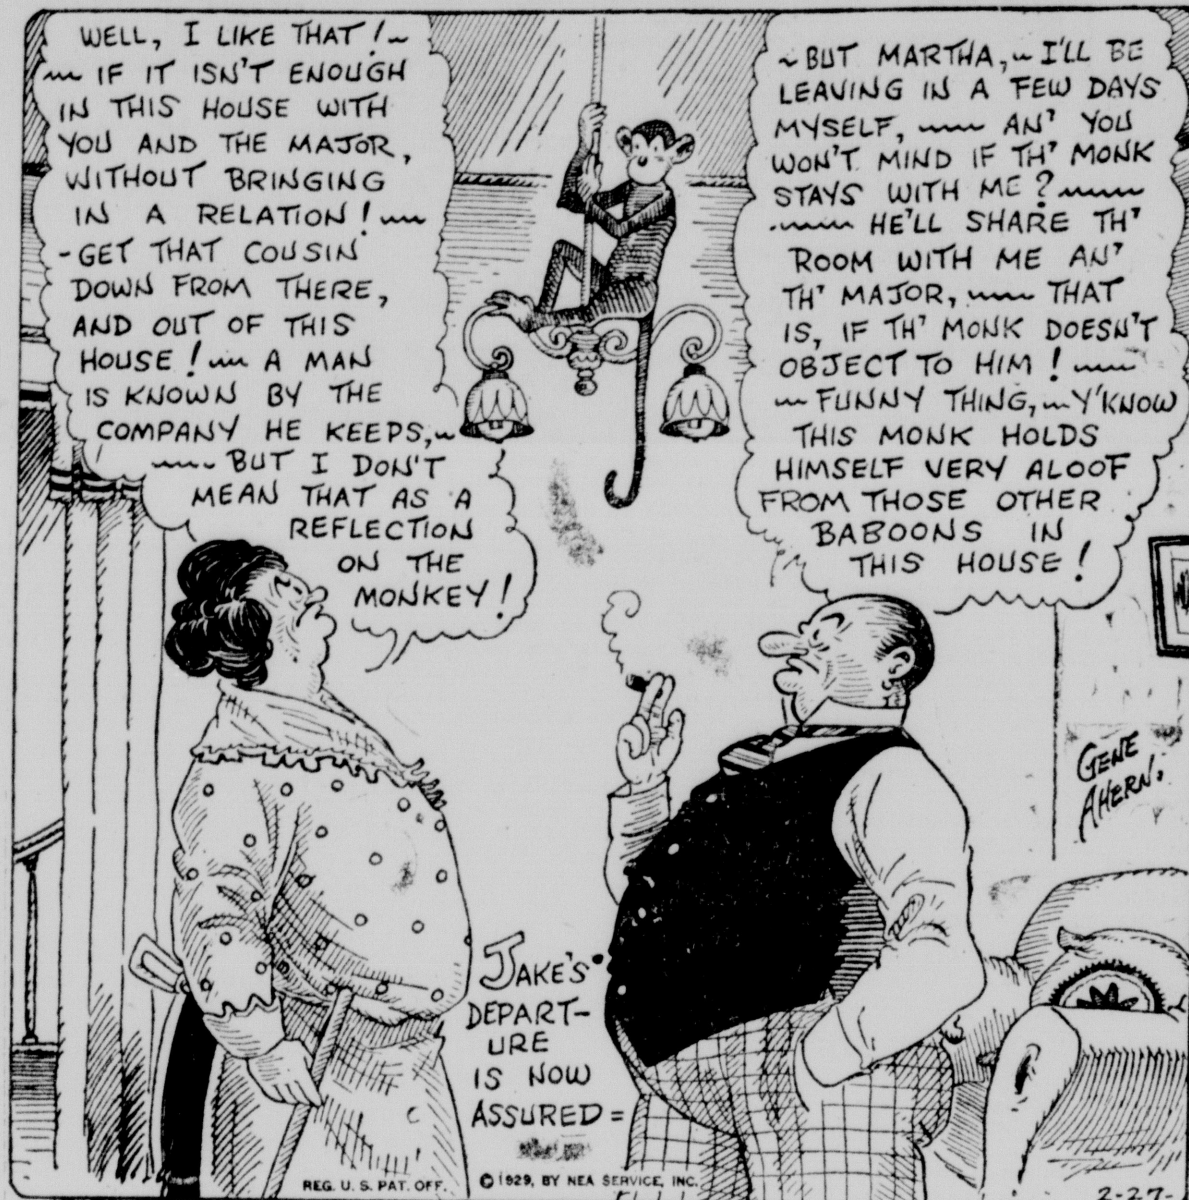

As a group, the 35,000 members of the municipal staff go to their jobs with a serious loss of prestige and public respect, Prof. White said in his report.

Mayor William Hale Thompson's administration was blamed largely for this state of affairs, Prof. White saying "this dishonest employment situation is created, maintained and emphasized by those responsible for the executive policy of the city, above all by the mayor."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

THE INAUGURAL PAGEANT

From Washington to Hoover

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
(Associated Press Feature Writer)

Washington—(AP)—In a Washington, gorgeous in the day and glowing at night, Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey began his eight years of man-killing responsibilities as chief executive of the United States.

President-elect Wilson, bowing solemnly with doffed high hat, and President Taft, flashing his famous smile, rode in a horse-drawn victoria from the White House to the Capitol March 4, 1913, in the biggest parade in inaugural history. Leading a column of 40,000 soldiers and civilians was Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, grand marshal.

High on both sides of Pennsylvania avenue buildings and reviewing stands were packed with people, rising from the solid masses along the curbs to dense throngs in balconies and windows and on the housetops. Trains pulling into the capital every two minutes had brought a total of 250,000 visitors. Rooms in hotels overlooking Pennsylvania avenue rented for $50 a day.

Sharing in the tumultuous applause, Taft grinned good naturedly at the crowds. This brought from Wilson adherents impulsive shouts of "You're a damned good loser." It was the first democratic presidential victory in 20 years, so the day was one of triumphal celebration by members of that party.

Wilson, however, after taking the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice White, an old Confederate soldier, said:

"This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here must not be the forces of party but the forces of humanity."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, standing for the last time at the speaker's desk, presided over the house of representatives, of which he had been a member for more than 40 years.

Called to the chair by his old friend, Speaker, Champ Clark, a wild cheer went up as he ascended the rostrum. New faces in the senate were those of George Norris of Nebraska, Thomas Walsh of Montana and Joseph Robinson of Arkansas.

Accompanied by a delegation of 300 Princeton University students, Wilson had arrived in Washington March 3 while 5,000 suffrage crusaders were marching down Pennsylvania avenue in a spectacular demonstration. The avenue was "yellow as sunshine" with small flags in the suffrage color, Carrie Chapman Catt, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Helen Keller were prominent figures in the procession.

Gen. Rosalie Jones and a band of pilgrims had hiked 250 miles through mud, rain and snow from New York to Washington. Women were necklaces of huge amber beads and carried bunches of jonquils. There were tones of yellow in hat trimmings and neckties, and hucksters sold suffrage bananas, oranges and celery.

"The Pink Lady" and "The Chocolate Soldier" were musical comedy hits of the day, and Billie Burke, Laurette Taylor, Nezhova, Robert Hilliard and Fiske O'Hara were stage favorites.

Coats cut away at the front and slashed skirts were the last word in spring suits, hats were of the long Billie Burke fashion, and the side-car was hailed as a popular adjunct to the motorcycle.

Then came the world war, German U-boat atrocities, and the high cost of living. To the ominous rattle of sabers, President Wilson rode through a lane of steel to the Capitol for his second inauguration a month before the United States joined the allies. The nation had been shocked by the revelation of Germany's attempt to unite Japan and Mexico in war upon us.

This inaugural was no gathering of democrats vaunting victory. It was the assembling of patriots about their chief to encourage him in his hour of deepest concern. National guardsmen, bronzed from service on the Mexican border and with guns loaded, lined Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the capitol. Surrounded by secret service men, the presidential carriage was in the center of a hollow square of cavalymen.

To provide additional protection for the President and his party, 100 plain clothes men were posted on housetops along the route of the parade. It was essentially a military spectacle, with tense international relations increasing its portent of war. Grand Army veterans bore with difficulty against a strong wind a banner inscribed "G. A. R. ready for any duty," and an armored motor car in the parade drew much attention.

MERGER OF TWO FINANCE FIRMS IS MADE PUBLIC

Northern Illinois and Lincoln Highway Concerns United

Consolidation of the Northern Illinois Finance Company and the Lincoln Highway Finance & Thrift Co. into a million dollar corporation to be known as the Northern Illinois Finance Corporation was announced Tuesday in DeKalb by Senator H. G. Wright, who has been elected president of the new corporation. The decision to form the new organization was taken at a meeting of the stockholders of the two companies, held Monday evening. The new corporation has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware.

The business handled by the two companies that have formed the consolidation will be continued on an even larger scale. The Northern Illinois Finance Company has engaged in the financing of automobile sales while the Lincoln Highway Finance & Thrift Co. has engaged in the general finance business. The new corporation will engage in the general financing business as a result of the consolidation. The change is made, it is pointed out, to reduce overhead expenses, as in the past each organization maintained its independent force.

Courtney Named Manager.

Senator H. G. Wright is the president of the new corporation while T. E. Courtney, who has been manager of the Northern Illinois Finance Co. will remain as manager of the new organization. He will also serve as secretary and treasurer.

The corporation will maintain offices in the quarters that have been occupied by the Northern Illinois Finance Co. in DeKalb. Offices will be maintained in Dixon and Sterling, which after March 1st, will be in charge of District Manager A. C. Grover of this city.

Men of Fifty Should Keep in Good Condition

By JOSEPH P. KANE, M. D.
Medical Adviser, Gorgas Memorial Institute, Washington, D. C.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

"Absolutely no," is my answer to the many men of fifty who have rather forlornly asked me if it wasn't too late for them to better themselves. No one need imitate the athlete and undergo a long, exacting and strenuous course of physical training, but everyone may conserve or even enhance his body powers by suitable and constant body use.

A famous doctor of Philadelphia, who specialized in the upbuilding of men, when over sixty years of age said of himself that by utilizing odd moments during the exigencies of an active medical practice, he kept his circulation adjusted to all demands, some of them sudden and severe, kept his weight the same for over forty years, and above all maintained the elasticity of his muscle closely to the form established during college days. He cited a case, to show how one may set about to attain a fine physical condition:

An active business man, aged fifty-two, was sound organically, but he was too large. He was fairly active, but was conscious of a number of minor derangements common to his age and method of living. He had digestive discomforts, irregularities of sleep, also of heart action, he had an undue fatigability, a high susceptibility to colds, and stiffness of the muscles mislabeled rheumatism.

This man determined to rid himself of all these. Thirteen years later, at the time of the telling of the story, he was a model of vigor, of endurance, of resistance to cold and disease, and capable of accomplishing four times as much as before. His muscles were responsive and controllable and as normal as those of a man of thirty.

All this was brought about by gradually inuring the skin to exposure and to thorough frictions by hands and brush, by exercising nearly nude, and by securing complete elasticity by simple, free movements; by stretching; by tensions in normal directions followed by full relaxations; by systematic deep breathing; and, when opportunity afforded, by long walks. Also, he modified his diet along milk and vegetable lines, with plenty of fruit and nuts.

LINDBERGH AND FIANCEE GO TO AIR TO BE ALONE

Air Excursion Today Over Twin Volcanoes of Mexico

Mexico City, Feb. 27.—(AP)—An air excursion over Mexico City possibly as far as the nearby twin volcanoes, with his fiancée Miss Anne Morrow, is planned by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

After two days in the romance-laden atmosphere of sleepy old Cuernavaca, the aviator was back today in this Capital, within easy reach of Valbuena flying field and his plane.

Sometime before the termination of his visit here, it is understood, the plane, the four passenger City of Wichita, will be trundled from its hangar for the trip of the engaged pair.

Flight from Valbuena to Mexico City is a matter of minutes; a short extension of the excursion would carry the two over Popocatepetl, "Fire Mountain," and Interoceanic, "Sleeping Woman," snow-capped volcanic peaks 50 miles from the Capital.

Return of Colonel Lindbergh and Miss Morrow, her sister Elizabeth and Mrs. Morrow to Mexico City was entirely unexpected. A few minutes prior to their arrival by motor car the American embassy had given out the information that the stay of Cuernavaca was indefinite and plans of the two were not known.

Had Undisturbed Quiet. Part of the forty miles over the Colonel drove himself.

At Cuernavaca the aviator had the undisturbed quiet he has sought so much in the United States. Nevertheless the Colonel apparently became restless at the forty miles which separated him from Valbuena and the opportunity to fly. It was believed the unexpected return here had no other significance.

Save in flight there will be little opportunity for him and Miss Morrow to be much alone, inasmuch as there are house guests at the Morrow home, and few places outside the home where they can go and not be the center of an admiring throng.

There was no intimation of plans for Colonel Lindbergh's return to the United States, or as to the date and place of his marriage.

HOOVER'S SPEECH TO BE SHORT AND TO THE POINT

Is Expected to Deal With Issues Which Took Him to Office

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover in his inaugural address next Monday is expected to discuss the principal issues in the campaign in which he won to the White House.

Among these was law enforcement, involving the prohibition and other statutes, the subject upon which he touched in a number of his speeches from the date of his notification until he made his last purely political pronouncement at St. Louis four days before his election.

His opinion as thus expressed was that the purpose of the eighteenth amendment was to protect the American homes; that he wished it to succeed and that a sacred obligation was imposed upon the President to secure its honest enforcement and to eliminate the abuses which have grown around it.

With a view to bringing about better conditions and enforcements in his administration, Mr. Hoover now is engaged in the task of selecting a commission of outstanding men which will go into the whole subject and make such recommendations as he believes will materially improve existing conditions.

To Detail Farm Relief. Farm relief was another of the outstanding issues and the President elect is expected to go into this at some length but to give a more expanded exposition of his views in his message to the special session of the new Congress which he plans now to call for mid-April.

Tariff was another subject upon which Mr. Hoover laid much stress and which also is to be considered during the spring and summer session of Congress. He is known to favor revision of duties in many schedules, including those applying to a number of agricultural products, as well as some industrial products, but is opposed to any general rewriting of the 1922 act.

On the subject of immigration, the view of the President-elect as stated during the campaign is that limitation is a fundamental part of the protective system because it prevents a flood of labor from abroad which would break down American wage levels.

The next President now is putting the finishing touches on his inaugural speech which is described as comparatively short, requiring perhaps a little more than half an hour for delivery.

THOMPSON KEEPS CONTROL OF CITY COUNCIL IN VOTE

Chicago Election Was Unusually Quiet as Police Guard

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A bloodless election returned control of the city council to Mayor Thompson yesterday.

Extraordinary police precautions were credited with having preserved peace, even in the Twentieth ward, from which one of the aldermanic candidates fled under police guard the day before the election. There were less than two dozen arrests, and these for minor infractions.

Half a dozen wards hummed with reports of plots to steal ballot boxes. Police met these reports by sending machine gun squads to watch over the voting.

Morris Eller, City Collector, and himself of the "Bloody Twentieth," a rest of violence—a stone hurled through the window of his office at the City Hall. Police were not sure but that even this was accidental rather than malicious.

The "Thompson Aldermen" retained a comfortable control of the council, 33 of them being re-elected for another two year term. The mayor lost one of his floor leaders, Alderman L. J. Grossman of the Fifth, and four of the six sitting Aldermen who were beaten were "Thompson men."

11 Run-Offs Needed. In 11 wards no candidate received a majority this necessitating a runoff election in April. Four of the candidates who must stand for a new vote have been supporters of the mayor.

Alderman A. J. Prignano, against whom the forces of "Boss" Eller were concentrated in the 20th, was defeated by William V. Pacelli, State Representative. Both candidates received death threats before the election.

Alderman Titus Haffa, under two year penitentiary sentence following conviction for violation of the federal prohibition laws, was swamped in the 43rd by A. P. Albert.

The outstanding setback suffered by Thompsonians was in the Eighth ward where Alderman William D. Meyering, a persistent critic of the Thompson program, was re-elected.

Three bond propositions were approved by the voters.

Dismal weather and lack of general interest resulted in a turnout of only about 50 per cent of the registered voters.

TERribly EXPENSIVE. "I don't see why having your car overhauled should be such a depressing experience."

"You don't, eh? Well, it was overhauled by a motorcycle cop."—Life.

ROCK RIVER FARM AT BYRON IS OUT FOR STATE HONOR

A Record Race for Gold Medal Honors of Butterfat Club

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A record race for gold medal honors in the Illinois 500-Pound Butterfat Cow club is under way with a new high total of 715 cows owned by 252 farmers and dairymen in 44 counties of the state nominated for membership in the club. C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois announced today.

This is 141 more cows than nominated last year. Launched four years ago, the club is designed to demonstrate the merits of good breeding, proper feeding and the right kind of care and management in securing profitable and economical milk and butterfat production. To qualify for the gold medal award, cows must produce 500 or more pounds of butterfat a year.

All breeds are making a bid for the club honors this year, Rhode said. In numbers, Holsteins hold a big advantage, with 412 cows nominated. Jerseys are next with 170 purebreds and grades. Guernseys third with 88, Brown Swiss fourth with 32 and Shorthorns fifth with 9. There are also four cows of mixed breeding. Rock River Farms, Byron, Ogle county, are out to win a lion's share of the honors were a total of 54 cows nominated. Grimwood Brothers, Plano, have 17, while the John Deere Farms, Keenes, have entered 11, and E. G. Brown, Caledonia; Elwood & Nelson, DeKalb; and F. L. Robinson, Morton, 10 cows each.

Short Sketch of Life of H. K. Kohn, Ill. Director

BY MORRIS WATSON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—There was hurry in a German village. People scurried to get behind drawn shades. Tiny tots clung desperately to their mother's skirts.

Up the street, saber end clanking on cobblestones, sauntered a swash-buckling lieutenant. A few villagers, bold enough to stay on the streets, stepped respectfully from the sidewalks to clear his path.

This was the order of things. An orphan boy, barely more than ten, watched the lieutenant and watched the people of his village. He refused to be awed. The age-old spectacle filled him with disgust.

For generations this boy's folks had stood the order and never questioned its right. But this boy—well, circumstances molded him into different stuff. When he was four, his father died. At seven he lost his mother. Only an older brother and an older sister were left, tragically unequipped to understand the love of freedom that welled in their small brother's breast.

It was these things that made

Henry H. Kohn, Anna Merchant and director of the department of purchases and construction in Governor Louis L. Emmerson's cabinet, look to America.

Forced to work these early days of his youth, Henry Kohn learned much about business. He was messenger boy for a wholesale house and every spare moment was spent prying into the ways of business.

Nights he spent with Tom Paine and dreams of a freer land. Over and over he read and dog-eared the pages of Paine and now and then spent hours with the Bible. When he got a chance to attend night school he made much of it.

He had a chum. One day—that was in 1875 and young Kohn was 14—the chum said: "Heinrich, let us run away to America where there is opportunity for boys like us."

"It's a go!" replied the elated Henry.

And it was a go right then and there. Both boys had saved enough money for passage in the steerage and a few weeks later saw them in Boston. There were no immigration officials then to ask silly questions of boys seeking opportunity. America sought men, many of them. Great things remained to be done in that day.

They worked in Boston stores for awhile, Henry and his chum. Then they heeded the call of Horace Greeley, and made their way to St. Louis. There Henry went to night school, read English books and nearly worked his head off. When he was eighteen he packed his chum off to Jerseyville, Ill., and here, on the money they had saved, started a small store.

It was not long until the late A. W. Cross of Chesterfield discovered the business genius in Henry. He enticed him to sell out and work in Cross' store in Chesterfield. From then on Henry and his chum went separate ways.

In Chesterfield the young Mr. Kohn married Lillian Peebles and after five years moved to Anna to start the store that still is doing business.

Only a short while and the immigrant boy who came over in the steerage began to be a factor in the community. His business prospered. He was elected vice president of the Anna National bank. Hardly was he of age in 1884 and his fellow townsmen selected him to represent him at the republican state convention. Political honors rained on him. In 1896 he was appointed trustee of the Anna state hospital by Governor Tanner and successively reappointed by Governors Yates and Deneen. When the trusteeships were abolished he was appointed a member of the Kaskaskia commission by Governor Deneen.

Governor Lowden appointed him superintendent of purchases and supplies and a member of the board of administration in 1917. Governor Small reappointed him in 1920. After two and a half years under Governor

Small, ill health forced him to resign.

Then came Governor Emmerson this year and Henry Kohn's reappointment to the post he knows so well.

Mr. Kohn has been chairman of the republican committee of Union county for twenty years. He was a delegate to the national convention in 1908 and has been a delegate to every state convention since 1896.

"There is opportunity in America today, too," Mr. Kohn said. "Boys born here don't realize it. From across they come and build up, build up—they appreciate the opportunity that can be found in no other land."

Two years ago Mr. Kohn returned to Europe to visit his relatives for the first time since he left them as a boy. All of them were dead.

RADIO TO CARRY DETAILS OF BIG BATTLE THIS EVE

Day for Sharkey and Stribling Battle
Dawned Clear

BULLETIN

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The morning of the Sharkey-Stribling fight dawned clear, with little wind, and with a bright sun shining over the rough pine seats of the Flamingo Park arena. The temperature was about 73 at 7 a. m. Eastern standard time.

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Fighting, rich in the traditions of daring promotion and unusual drama, dedicated a new and spectacular outpost today, if the weather be fair.

Amid scenes and surroundings that are a strange contrast to the old days when prize fighting was a fugitive game in the south, the wealthy and fashionable, the great army of the great of business and politics, of the pleasure grounds and the sports world, have gathered here for the ten-round heavyweight match tonight between W. L. "Young" Stribling and Jack Sharkey.

In one of the greatest fight shows and the most spectacular sports event the old south has ever known, Stribling, pride of Georgia and the pugilistic hope of Dixie will box Sharkey, the hard hitting Boston sailor, for the right to battle for the crown that Gene Tunney has laid aside—to the winner may go the chance to meet the promoter of this remarkable affair, Jack Dempsey, for recognition as the heavyweight champion of the world.

Sharkey is the favorite to win. The betting odds early today wavered around six to five and seven to five in his favor. The expert consensus likewise favors the chances of the rugged sailor but the lean son of Georgia is the sentimental favorite in the biggest test he has ever faced before the "home folks."

Close to 35,000 spectators, the capacity of the miniature edition of Boyle's Thirty Acres in Flamingo Park, will see the youthful ring craft and wallop of Stribling pitted against the rugged defense and counter attack of the Bostonian.

Millions more will hear the details of the fray over a nation wide hook-up of nearly sixty broadcasting stations, the greatest ever arranged for a fight and a remarkable evidence of widespread interest in a match that has itself no championship significance.

The promoters estimate that the "gate," at prices of $5 to $25, will be close to $400,000. When the box office opened for its last day's business today, there was nearly $350,000 in actual cash in hand, sufficient not only to pay Sharkey $100,000 and Stribling a 20 per cent "cut" of about $60,000, but also enough to assure the Madison Square Garden corporation a profit of about $100,000.

This is the fruition of the last fight dream of Tex Rickard, whose daring fortunes carried him on from Goldfield to Reno, Toledo, New York, Jersey City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Exceeds Text Dreams.

The completed venture, as it turns out, not only exceeds the fondest dreams of Rickard before he died in January but also surpasses the hopes of his associates who, with Dempsey's support, decided only after many misgivings to carry on the promotion. Instead of an expected deficit they are assured a big profit as well as prestige for the organization left by Rickard but now directed by "Big Bill" Carey and others of the Garden's famous "600 millionaires."

Those who scan the "inside stuff" for indications attach some significance to the word that Mike Capone, brother of Scarface Al Capone, former Chicago gang leader, will be in Sharkey's corner. The Capones live sumptuously in an island residence here, but the idea of any influence being brought to bear, or any suggestion of intimidation is scouted in both fight camps, where spokesmen are agreed on the fairness as well as fearlessness of Magnolia, who has handled many of New York's most important bouts.

The facts of battle, already fairly well ballyhooed, are that the big show starts at 7:45 Eastern Standard time, with an array of seven preliminary bouts as well as a battle royal involving 12 Negroes. The main go is for ten rounds to an official referee's decision. The rules of New York State Athletic Commission also will govern the contest. In event of rain the whole program will be put over to Thursday night.

Corbett Recalls Fight in Florida

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—An elderly gentleman in horn-rimmed glasses, his thinning hair parted in the middle, will peer intently at the Sharkey-Stribling fight proceedings tonight from a seat in the press row. Between turns at a typewriter he may be pardoned a bit for dreaming of the past.

He is James J. Corbett, "Gentle man Jim," one-time champion of the world and now at 64, appraising in some amazement this extravaganza and comparing it with the night some thirty-five years ago when he fought and knocked out Charley Mitchell, the champion of England, in a title match at Jacksonville.

That bout, incidentally, was the last big heavyweight match in Florida. The contrast and the growth of boxing is all the more astonishing to me when I recall that Mitchell and I fought for a purse of $20,000, winner take all, whereas one of the principals in this fight gets $100,000 win, lose or draw," said Corbett.

"With our harders, we all were arrested after that fight thirty-five years ago and had to come back later for trial."

Sea Cowboy Rides Bronc' in Thrilling Leap

Riding a fretful broncho isn't any job for a rocking chair addict, but riding a boat that whizzes through the air like this at 35 miles an hour isn't like asking for two lumps of sugar in your tea, either. The sea cowboy shown here is 18-year-old Malcolm Pope, and he did his stunt during the water rodeo at the Florida Orange Festival at Winter Haven. The boat soars into the air from an inclined runway.

Canzoneri's Punch Missing Last Night

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, found his knockout punch missing when he battled the Filipino gamecock, Ignacio Fernandez in their ten round battle at the Coliseum last night. He pounded Fernandez concrete chin with an avalanche of punches, but failed to come close to knocking him out or even upsetting him.

Eddie Shea, Chicago's contender for the featherweight title also found Sailor Fay Kosky of San Francisco, to tough to stop. In fact Shea was bothered so much by Kosky's left handed style that he was held to a draw.

Joey Medill, Chicago lightweight, pounded out a decision over Joey Kauffman of Brooklyn, and Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, out-punched Willie Michel, a Belgian 124 pounder.

Lindy Just Wouldn't Stay on the Ground

Safe after a flight from Florida made hazardous by menacing weather along the North Carolina coast, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is pictured above as he emerged from the cockpit of his plane at Bolling Field, Washington. A large crowd had gathered to welcome the Lone Eagle and hail the success of his recent trail-blazing hop to Panama and return with a cargo of mail. Lindy, enroute to the capital, was forced by bad weather to make two over-night stops in North and South Carolina.

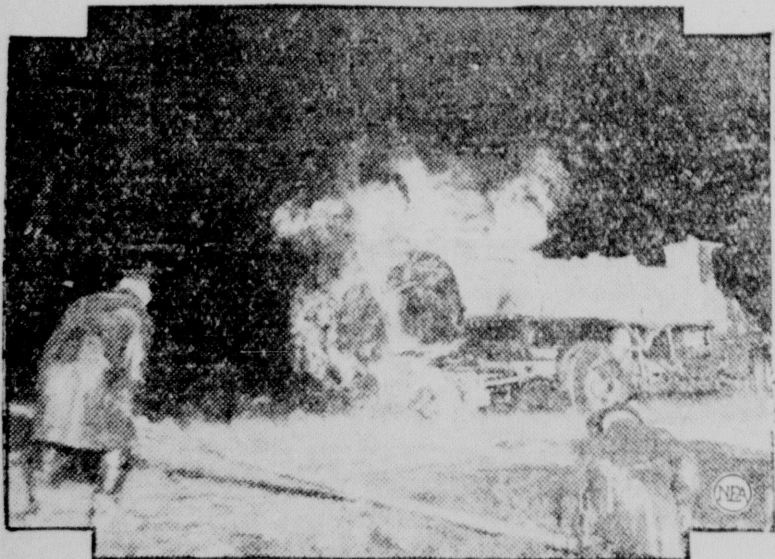

When Colonel Lindbergh, during his southern airmail flight, was a visitor aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, they just couldn't keep him on the broad, safe decks of the giant aircraft carrier. Here you see the air ace perched nonchalantly on the edge of the safety net that runs around the ship. This was in the Panama Canal Zone, where the Saratoga had gone to participate in mock war maneuvers.

Spain's Rebel Chiefs Arrested

Nipped in the bud was their revolt plan. Don Jose Sanchez Guerra, left, former premier of Spain, and Castro Girona, commander of Valencia, have been seized as leaders of a revolutionary conspiracy against the Spanish throne and General Primo de Rivera. Guerra was arrested as he landed in Valencia from France where he had been issuing rebellious proclamations, and Girona has been incarcerated in the military prison which he formerly commanded.

All From a Loose Steering Gear!

Great aches grow from little corns. The steering gear became loose on a gasoline truck. The truck careened into a telephone and trolley pole. A wire broke and set fire to the gasoline tank. The flames caused other wires to snap. An adjacent pole fell on a passenger automobile, injuring seven persons. Burning gasoline streamed into sewers and blew up manholes. A bridge caught fire. Traffic was brought to a standstill. All this happened in Boston, and here you see firemen as they fought the blaze which had such varied consequences.

COOLIDGE MAKES PLANS TO LEAVE CAPITAL MONDAY

Will then Depart for His Massachusetts Home After Inaugural

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Although nearly a month has passed since President and Mrs. Coolidge began preparing their possessions for removal to Northampton, the packing process is not yet complete. It has, however, reached the odds and ends and also has been reduced to a few of their most highly prized belongings that had been saved for the last to be carried with them on Monday when they leave the national capital for their old Massachusetts home.

In this classification lies a picture of the cabinet which has hung in the executive offices. Realizing that this photograph, so intimately related to his stay in the White House may prove a particular cherished memento in later years, Mr. Coolidge is having particular care taken in its preparation for shipment by the White House attaches, to whom has fallen most of the work of packing up.

To Take Cabinet Chair

The President is expected to take to Northampton with him also, the chair in which he has presided at the semi-weekly Cabinet sessions. About this lies an old tradition. It is customary for the outgoing President to present his successor with a new chair for use at the Cabinet table and to take his own with him. The chair which Mr. Coolidge will leave for Herbert Hoover has been ordered, but meanwhile his own chair still stands in the Cabinet room, awaiting the last meeting of the Coolidge Cabinet which is to take place on Friday.

It will be on the following evening, however, that Mr. Coolidge will say good-bye to his group of official advisors. On Saturday evening, the members of the Cabinet and their wives are to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge at a farewell dinner in the White House. Three members of the present Cabinet—Secretaries Mellon and Davis of the Labor department, and Postmaster General New—were in office when the Chief Executive succeeded President Harding, while the remaining seven are all of his own appointment.

Last Social Function

After the Cabinet dinner, one more social function will remain before the "Coolidges" leave the White House. The President-elect and Mrs. Hoover, Vice President-elect Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward H. Gann, will be dinner guests at the Executive Mansion on Sunday evening.

Mr. Coolidge's plans for inauguration day are now fairly well formulated. As drawn up at present he will accompany Mr. Hoover to the Capitol, as is customary, and there, in the closing minutes of the Congressional session, he will sign bills and then look on as Vice President Dawes administers the oath of office to Senator Curtis and adjourns the Senate sine die. Shortly afterward, Mr. Coolidge will follow the customary practice of proclaiming the Senate in extraordinary session.

To Watch Induction

This done, he will proceed to the east front of the Capitol where Chief Justice Taft will induct Herbert Hoover into office.

Mr. Hoover's inaugural address will follow and a little later, Mr. Coolidge will go directly to the union station and entrain for Northampton.

As the time for his retirement from office approaches, regret on the President's part at a necessary breaking off of many pleasant personal relations is tempered by a feeling of relief that he is about to be free of the responsibilities of the Presidential office. He has formed many pleasant associations during his stay in Washington, but he will be glad when once more he becomes a private citizen.

Plan Hearings on Farm Relief Laws

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Farm relief hearings before the House Agriculture committee will be begun on the convening of the special session of Congress in April under plans made public today by Chairman Haugen of the committee.

The committee is to meet Friday to finally determine on the course of procedure. Chairman Haugen said that while all phases of the farmers' problems would be heard it was the desire of the committee to have a few witnesses to represent each group.

Hearings probably would consume two weeks and the third week, he said, would be devoted to drafting the proposed farm relief legislation.

CHARGES TROY BANK VIOLATED LAWS IN LOANS

37 Per Cent of Assets Loaned to Losing Coal Company

St. Louis, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said today it had learned that the Troy, Ill., State Bank, which closed February 3, loaned $112,000 or 37 per cent of all its assets to "an unprofitable coal company in which the bank president was a heavy stockholder and president."

The bank, which had assets of $300,000, was closed by the Board of Directors. Yesterday, depositors agreed to petition for a receiver from among their number in the hope of salvaging from 90 to 90 per cent of their money, according to the newspaper.

Alfred Seligman of Clayton, St. Louis suburb, who headed the bank, also was president of the Troy Coal Co., the Post-Dispatch said, adding that the coal company now appears on the banks books as the debtor in loans totaling $112,000. The newspaper pointed out that the Illinois banking law provides that no bank may lend more than 15 per cent of its capital stock and surplus to any single borrower. The bank was capitalized at $25,000 and had a surplus of $6,000.

State Auditor Neison has called a meeting of creditors and officers of the bank, to be held at Springfield tomorrow. At that time the appointment of a receiver will be discussed. The Post-Dispatch said it learned that the only security for the coal company's indebtedness to the bank is $4,500 worth of stock in the coal company.
